OUR CHOICE ON CABLE

Alternative sports

Switch-on to Sky Sports for some of the more exciting alternative sports, starting with Indoor Windsurfing on Friday, 27th March at 11pm. The world's best competitors, including world champion Robbie Naish, gather at the Professional Boardsailors Association Championships in Paris to give an aerial rather than nautical display of spectacular stunts in an indoor swimming pool with a 25-knot generated 'wind'!

Perhaps the world's most chilling past-time is base-jumping, (which incidentally has nothing to do with on-stage stunts with a guitar!) Tune-in to Rock Sport on Monday, 30th March, 6.30pm for a special focus on expert base-jumper, Patrick de Gayardon.

The madcap Frenchman spends his time leaping off ravine edges, plunging in freefall for hundreds of feet. For relaxation he surfs on air in freefall from the back of a plane or could it be just boulder-dash!

Time for Tears

To coincide with Tears for Fears much anticipated new album, Tears Roll Down, MTV are featuring a special Tears for Fears weekend — Tears for Fears Greatest Hits, starting Friday 6th March. Roland Orzabel takes a look at the group's many smash hits, including the likes of 'Everybody Wants To Rule The World', 'Shout', 'Pale Shelter' and 'Sewing The Seeds Of Love'.

Tears for Fears Greatest Hits continues on Saturday at 2pm and Sunday at 5.30pm.

Living it up on Saturday Night!

Home of The Blues Brothers and launch pad of the stars, television's longest running comedy show, Saturday Night Live is back on air! Thanks to MTV, you too will be able to discover what had America splitting at the sides in a show which features a celebrity host from the world of movies, theatre, television or even politics, a musical performance from a major artist and the Saturday Night Live cast — which over the show's 15 year history has included Dan Ackroyd, John Belushi, Chevy Chase and Bill Murray!

During March, MTV will be showing two episodes of this classic comedy back-to-back, an early edition from deep in the archives and a more recent one, every Saturday night from 8 — 9pm. The line-up for March includes Robin Williams, Madeline Khan, James Taylor, Carly Simon — Saturday, 7th; Madonna, Steve Martin, Simple Minds, Blondie — Saturday, 14th; Chevy Chase, Carrie Fisher, Sheila E, The Blues Brothers — Saturday, 21st and Candice Bergman, Peter Cook & Dudley Moore, Cher, Neil Sedaka — Saturday, 28th.

Nature lovers won't want to miss Discovery's brand new wildlife series, Wild Sanctuaries, a lyrical and passionate homage to nature in her purest state. The birds of the Everglades, the grizzlies of Yellowstone, the giant turtles of Galapagos, the lions and elephants of Serengeti, the tigers of India, the last pandas of Wolong in China, the wild horses of Camargue in France, the polar bears of Greenland and the unique animals of Australia all owe their preservation to the laws which protect these fragile areas.

A mythical and breathtaking display of natural formations and wildlife, Wild Sanctuaries is a thirteen part series which screens on Tuesdays at 10pm and Fridays at 7pm, beginning Tuesday 10th March.

The newest cable channel

● DISCOVERY is launching a new cable channel on 2 March called The Learning Channel.

The service will offer programmes for an audience ranging from senior secondary school pupils through to adults, including over-65s, to continue education for people who want it.

The subjects will include health, medicine, parenting and social skills as well as 'how to' programmes covering a range of leisure pursuits. Other programmes will be relevant for schools and colleges which teachers can use to complement their courses.

The Learning Channel will transmit three hours a day, seven days a week to all UK cable operators between 12noon and 3.00pm from an Intelsat VI transponder.

Joyce Taylor, Chief Operating Officer, says: 'We see this as an important addition to the cable-exclusive channels currently transmitting.' ■

WOMEN OF INFLUENCE

WOMEN OF THE WORLD is an unusual series that introduces intimate, revealing portraits of famous women from different walks of life and contrasting cultures and ethnic backgrounds.

The series journeys from the US to the USSR, from Austria to Australia, and Egypt to England, exploring the lives of exotic and sometimes inspirational women.

Women featured in the show include Catherine Deneuve, Princess von Thum und Taxis, Jane Seymour, Chrissie Hynde, Coco Chanel, Lesley-Anne Down, Jehan Sadat and Barbara Cartland, all of whose gifts have made them well known to people the world over. ■

THEY HAVE DESIGNS ON YOU!

THE FASHION WORLD has seen women breaking new ground with stunning designs and electrifying collections. With a natural eye for colour and flair, Vivienne Westwood has taken the international fashion world by storm in recent years, while Italy's Laura Biagotti and New York's Donna Karen have injected the scene with a refreshing charge of energy.

This month Videofashion looks at how fashion's first ladies are changing the course of style from catwalk to the high street shops.

There are also plenty of hot tips for summer party evening wear for both men and women, with top designs from fashion centres around the world. ■

Comedy smilestones!

● MILLIONS OF Americans tune in each week to television's longest-running comedy series, Saturday Night Live.

Now European viewers can see what they have been missing when they switch on MTV. Home of the Blues Brothers and launch pad for many stars, Saturday Night Live on MTV will feature the cream of the early shows in the award-winning series.

John Belushi, Dan Aykroyd, Chevy Chase and Bill Murray have all been part of the cast in the show's 15-year history. And each show features a celebrity from the movies, theatre, television, sports or even politics, plus music from a major star.

This month MTV is showing two episodes back to back, an early edition and a more recent one. Look out for hosts Robin Williams and Madeline Kahn (7th), Madonna and Steve Martin (14th), Chevy Chase and Carrie Fisher (21st), Candice Bergen, Peter Cook and Dudley Moore (28th). ■

Fast-living and taking 'Chances'

▲ DIAMONDS, FAST CARS, blackmail and murder – the humdrum lifestyle of an average soap-opera family is on show in a new Australian production, Chances.

Passions run amok and greed takes root when the Taylor family wins a $3million lottery which catapults their lives into the realms of riches and fast-living.

This steamy series is launched with a two-hour special which finds the unsuspecting Taylors preparing for the wedding of their eldest daughter, beautiful Rebecca. Everything goes well until Rebecca's hot-shot brother, Alex, tries to lure the new groom, who is a music writer, away from the reception to do an advertising job.

Disaster strikes when the pair are involved in a road smash from which only one will survive.

Meanwhile, the Taylors have yet to discover that they are holding the winning $3million lottery ticket . . . ■

MAKE A DATE WITH 'STUDS'

STUDS IS THE kind of game show that would make Blind Date blush. Two men, not noted for their bashfulness, are sent out on dates with three women. They later convene in the Studs studio to compare notes and discover who is the 'bigger stud'. Raunchy questions and sexual innuendo pop out everywhere before the show, which comes from America, concludes with each 'stud' revealing which girl they fancied most. If there's a match up, the couple (or couples) are treated to a $500 fantasy date of the man's choice. ■

VIDEOTYPES

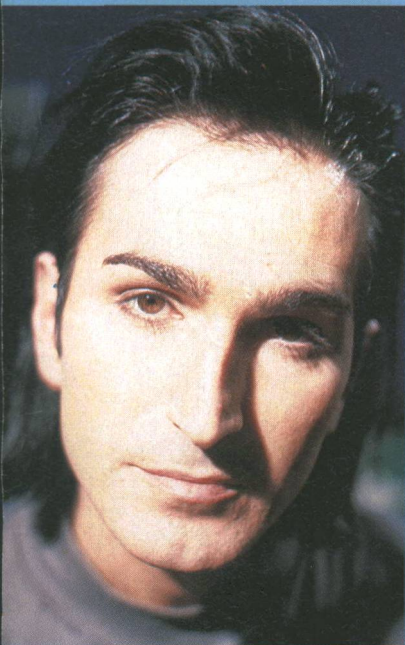

We asked MTV VJ Paul King to name his Top (and Bottom) Ten videos. Paul obliged, and also told us why the vids were Hit or Miss.

Paul's Favourite Videos

- ① Talking Heads - Once in a Lifetime - 'A creative band, imaginative video, excellent choreography and all of it very simple.'
- ② David Bowie - Ashes to Ashes - 'He's still one of my all-time faves, a great visual performer.'
- ③ REM - Losin My Religion - 'This clip's been played to death, but, incredibly, you'll always find something new to watch.'
- ④ Madonna - Any Video - 'She's the true star of the 1980s. Everything she does is interesting and, of course, very watchable.'
- ⑤ Any clip by French director Jean Baptiste Mondino - 'This guy is a genius. He's worked with everyone, from Prince, Sting, Madonna through to Don Henly and Vanessa Paradis.'
- ⑥ A House - Endless Art - 'Like Daisy Chainsaw, costs little but is very inventive and proves that money does not buy talent.'
- ⑦ Michael Jackson - Thriller - 'The Good Ole Days for Michael. Completely over the top, fab Hollywood fun and it cost tons of dosh.'
- ⑧ The The - Infected - 'Directed again by Jim Pope, I believe. Just brilliant.'
- ⑨ The Cure - Love Cats - 'Jim Pope directed, it's witty, wacky and he helped The Cure become the stars they are.'
- ⑩ Daisy Chainsaw - Love Your Money - 'It cost £3000, it looks great and it's one in the eye for the video production houses.'

Paul's Least Favourite Videos

- ① 'Any video where the musician has to act.'
- ② 'Any video where the artist gets to show off their stagelight show.'
- ③ 'Any video where the pop/rock/rap/metal person gets to kiss or fondle a more beautiful member of the opposite sex.'
- ④ 'Any Rave video. This is a waste of time. It is not a music for watching, as it is not about performers, but its audience.'
- ⑤ 'Any remix video where they cut up some old film footage to fit in with some usually awful disco remix.'
- ⑥ 'Any video where sex is just used in a non-artistic or witty or sensual manner.'
- ⑦ 'Any video where the artist gets to smash car windscreens.'
- ⑧ 'Any video where the artist's ego is obviously out of control, and it's not funny.'
- ⑨ 'Any video that boasts its thousands upon thousands of dollars budget. It's only pop music, and there are better things in the world to spend money on.'
- ⑩ 'Any charity video that shows suffering. It's not necessary. The news does the job.'

▲ Acoustic Clapton on 'Unplugged'

Socket to 'em, Eric!

ERIC CLAPTON, one of the music world's greatest legends, is to appear on MTV's acoustic music series Unplugged, in which artists turn off their smoke machines, unplug their amplifiers and get back to basics with some pure, unadulterated rock'n'roll.

Eric did just that, supported by a fabulous band of session musicians and backing singers, including Andy Fairweather-Lowe on rhythm guitar, Nathan East on bass and percussionist Ray Cooper.

The series is usually recorded in the US, but in January 1991 Paul McCartney and The Cure brought the show to London, and now 1992 sees Eric Clapton as the star of this month's show.

Eric performed to a small audience of fans in an intimate Windsor setting. He played a largely blues-oriented set featuring numbers like San Francisco Bay Blues and Old Love, and also delighted onlookers with a slow acoustic version of his classic hit Layla.

In addition he gave an emotionally charged rendition of his acoustic single Tears in Heaven, which he wrote with Will Jennings.

Tears in Heaven is taken from the soundtrack of Rush, which is playing to packed cinemas in the States, and opens here on March 20th. On the B-side is Tracks and Lines (also from Rush), with 12" and CD also featuring Bad Love and White Room, both taken from Clapton's recent 24 Nights live double album. Eric is currently midway through a UK tour which includes two dates at Wembley with Elton John at the end of June. ■

Don't miss MTV's Rock'n'Rap Weekend, when VJs set out to explore the origins of the fusion between these two radically different musical styles on the scene today. Included are such unlikely teamings as Aerosmith and Run DMC, Public Enemy and Anthrax, and hybrid bands like Urban Dance Squad. ■

You are cordially invited to join the Movie Channel in the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles for the 64th Academy Awards ceremony on 30 March. Posh frocks and DJs will be worn for the year's most glitzy gathering of celebrities. Your host, Iain Johnstone, will introduce you to Hollywood's top stars and Oscar nominees. Until then, the Movie Channel is celebrating Oscar month with at least one Academy Award-winning or -nominated film every day!

● 'THE OSCARS ARE the greatest show on earth,' says Iain Johnstone, the man who will be mingling with the stars on behalf of the Movie Channel's viewers.

'Everything else is an imitation, including BAFTA and all the other awards.'

'There is always a sensation at the Oscars.'

Johnstone and the Movie Channel camera team will be at the Awards chatting with the nail-biting superstars and capturing those 'I honestly never thought I'd win' moments.

The personalities he says he will be trying to buttonhole are Warren Beatty (Bugsy), Geena Davis and Susan Sarandon (Thelma and Louise), Jodie Foster and Anthony Hopkins (The Silence of the Lambs), and Kevin Costner (JFK and Robin Hood).

'It's wonderfully unpredictable,' says Johnstone, who is the Sunday Times's film critic and veteran of several previous Oscar events.

'You can find yourself with five minutes to kill or with an overjoyed Warren Beatty who is eager to talk because he has just won.'

There is apparently little backbiting among Tinseltown's finest.

The Movie Channel: The 64th Annual Academy Awards Monday 30th 1.30am, repeated Tuesday 31st 7.30pm

'Kenneth Branagh told me that there is great fraternal feeling among the nominees,' says Johnstone. Branagh actually cast Robin Williams in his film Dead Again after they both met backstage as Best Actor nominees.

But bitchiness can rear its ugly face when the most glamorous women in the world all try to out-dress each other. 'There is a lot of frocking going on,' says Johnstone.

And being seen at the very swankiest parties is important for Hollywood's celebrities to show-off their star status. 'If you have not been invited to the right parties during the Oscars it is essential to leave town.'

'I haven't been invited to any yet, but I will be insinuating my way into a party somewhere.'

In the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion the movie moguls will be on the edge of their seats waiting for those envelopes containing the winners to be opened winner is...

because getting an award can boost box-office takings by millions.

'The Oscars are the perfect marketing tool,' says Johnstone. He cites the example of Chariots of Fire beating Reds to the Best Picture award. That led to cinemas cancelling their bookings for Reds in favour of the British film, which meant a cash bonanza for Chariots of Fire.

On the lighter side: 'You get ridiculous awards. Gandhi also won for best costume design, a loincloth!'

And Johnstone's personal favourite this year: 'I would like to see Tony Hopkins win for Silence of the Lambs. It was a marvellous performance.' ■

Critic's Choice

Paul Coia of the Movie Channel's Spotlight

TOP MOVIES: My favourite film this year was Thelma and Louise. It was a great cheeky lift from Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid. Some people took it too seriously, especially men. For me, it was a good light comedy.

The Commitments was a really funny film and the music was the kind I like.

I would like to see Anthony Hopkins win an Oscar for a great performance (Silence of the Lambs) and because it is good to see a British person win. And Geena Davis (Thelma and Louise) could walk on the screen and stand motionless for two hours and I would still think she was brilliant.

TURKEYS: Hudson Hawk was appalling. Every gag was telegraphed half an hour before it arrived. And once you have seen Bruce Willis smirk once, that's enough.

OSCARS: They are undoubtedly a lottery. It all comes down to getting the jury on your side. Why has Steven Spielberg never won an Oscar? ET was a brilliant film. How can you not win an Oscar for that? Having said that, the Oscars are a good PR exercise in that they draw attention to the films and put bums on seats. ■

▲ Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis in 'Thelma and Louise'

▼ Robin Williams and Jeff Bridges in 'Fisher King'

TOP MOVIES: I thought the best film of the year was Thelma and Louise. Both Geena Davis and Susan Sarandon gave excellent performances. It was unusual to have women in such a buddy movie.

I think it was like Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid and Davis and Sarandon were easily as good as Paul Newman and Robert Redford.

Boyz 'n the Hood was an interesting movie and I liked The Commitments, Andrew Strong was very good.

Robert De Niro comes out with the most amazing performance in Cape Fear and the suspense is really well done. But it is a nasty film and not the sort of thing I want to watch.

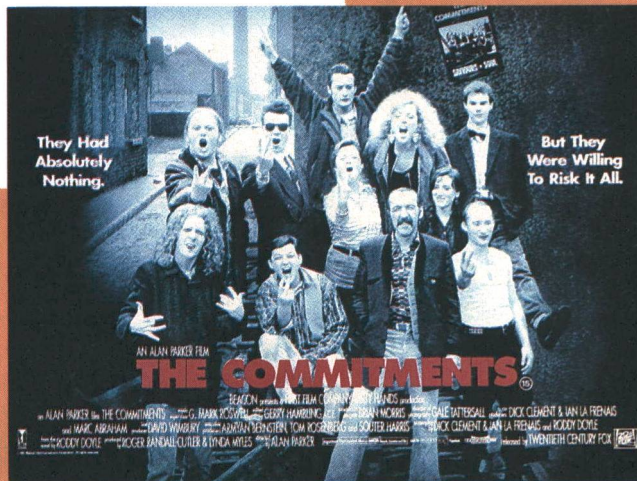

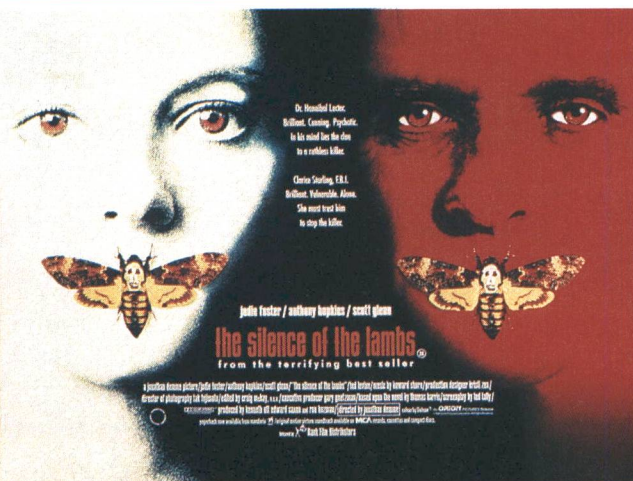

Delicatessen is a wonderful film. The design and the sets are fantastic and visually it is very exciting. Also Toto le Hero is beautifully acted with some wonderful child performances.

Call me old fashioned but I like films like The Fisher King that make you feel good, and Robin Williams was impressive. I also thought Jodie Foster was fantastic in Silence of the Lambs.

TURKEYS: Billy Bathgate has an unoriginal plot. Dustin Hoffman doesn't make it as a nasty boss. And the boy in it is rather gormless.

OSCARS: They help with the marketing of American films. In Europe we should do something to make sure our awards get so much publicity. We should be as good as the Americans are with their awards ceremonies because the whole world is watching. ■

FINAL COUNTDOWN

'ONCE I PUT ON that costume, that's it, I'm the King.'

No, Ian Botham was not referring to the pale blue outfit England is wearing during the Cricket World Cup but to his panto garb. However, England would certainly now welcome some regal performances from Botham and his team mates.

Sky Sports' extensive coverage of the six-week cricket bonanza from Australia and New Zealand continues as England face some crucial contests during the round-robin phase of the competition.

they must cope with the world's most devastating bowler, Pakistan's Waqar Younis. And then four days later they encounter Australia in Sydney, their conquerors in the last World Cup Final, in a match that has been billed as the clash of the favourites.

The following Thursday England have the intriguing task of renewing official hostilities at the crease with South Africa, who were recently readmitted to international cricket 21 years after their last Test match. England's bid to make the semi-finals could finally rest on their battle with New Zealand in Wellington on Sunday 15th.

If past form counts for anything, England are the only nation to have qualified for the semi-finals in every World Cup competition.

Whatever the outcome, viewers cannot ever have been as close to the action as they are during this competition. Technical wizardry and innovations are doing everything short of putting the armchair spectator in the batsman's shoes.

Up to 12 cameras cover each match including dual-camera 'Stump Vision', which is a pair of cameras set in the stumps. This wooden hardware also includes microphones.

By the beginning of March Sky's studio anchorman Charles Colville will have witnessed more than 52 hours of live action.

'No less than 23 games will be broadcast live on Sky through the night,' Colville says. 'And when you take into account the highlights of 13 other games plus the repeat showing in full of many of the overnight matches, it means Sky will be transmitting more than 260 hours of cricket. A wonderful few weeks for all cricket fans.'

The event reaches its climax on Wednesday 25th in a day/night Final in Melbourne. ■

Romance in Porcelain

By Wedgwood®

A hand-painted Wedgwood porcelain figurine plated with 22 carat gold.

The gentle rustle of taffeta. The graceful sweep of a fan. The sweet scent of rosebuds. The impatient hum of violins.

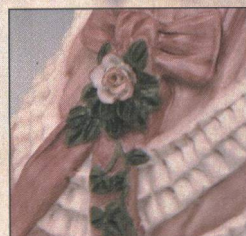

Fresh from the pages of a Jane Austen novel, and with the perfect gentility befitting a young lady of the Victorian era, 'Enchanted Evening', a charming Wedgwood figurine by talented artist Pauline Parsons, evokes romantic imagery. This lovely sculpture captures the spirit of a debutante's first cotillion.

Even the tiny rosebuds are hand-made.

Ivory ruffles cascade over the pink dress, which is accented with finely detailed, handmade rosebuds. The bow of a dainty pump peeps from under the hem. The opulent gown is a remarkable porcelain reproduction of an authentic Victorian ballgown from the world-famous Gallery of English Costume.

This elegant sculpture is lovingly hand-painted. 22 carat gold accents the classic Victorian jewellery and silk fan. The auburn coiffure is dressed with ivy leaves. The eyebrows are finely drawn, and cheeks are softly blushed.

Wedgwood has been appointed exclusively by The Gallery of English Costume to craft 'Enchanted Evening', and the base of each sculpture bears their coveted marks. Priced at £145 payable in convenient monthly instalments. To acquire this extraordinary figurine that will be cherished for generations simply return the attached form promptly.

The lovely bow on the bustle of the gown is festooned with handcrafted roses.

Last season saw an average of over 40,000 people attend Monarchs

The league was an unqualified success in Europe with similar high attendance figures in Frankfurt and Barcelona. The Frankfurt Galaxy and the Barcelona Dragons responded to their ecstatic crowds with winning seasons.

to the World Bowl only to lose to the Monarchs.

In America, however, the story was less happy. The ABC sports network paid $24million for two seasons of action. Home fields ranged from 72,000 Giants Stadium in New York to the 23,000 Hughes Stadium in Sacramento, California.

Unfortunately, the US crowds did not even reach the 23,000 level. Only Montreal came out with any credit and led the way in North America for crowd pulling. The city won the rights to stage the 1992 World Bowl as a consequence.

ABC reported poor ratings and fans complained that spring was the wrong time for football, plus they wanted more star names.

But in Europe it was the most exciting live football fans could attend since the first American Bowl in 1986. Moreover, TV audiences tuned-in in highly respectable numbers.

LEAGUE AND CUP struggles could swing decisively this month – and cable viewers can see many of the trophy-chasing teams from north and south of the border competing live.

On average there is a live game on Sky Sports every three days. The 10 scheduled matches cover the FA Cup, Scottish Cup, Scottish Premier League and international scene as well as the season's first Wembley final, the ZDS Cup.

Eight days of action from Saturday 14th could virtually settle the Scottish championship. With Celtic v Aberdeen live on Sunday 15th, the Edinburgh derby between Hibernian and Hearts on Friday 20th, and the blood-and-guts derby between Rangers and Celtic on Sunday 22nd, the season's climax is well covered.

In the English cup competitions, Sky is screening a hat-trick of ties. It is showing the ZDS Cup Final for the third consecutive season on March 29th. The FA Cup unfolds on-screen with coverage of the 5th-round replays and the 6th-round proper.

The pick of the international action features England and Scotland in their set of warm-up friendlies before June's European Championship in Sweden.

On Wednesday 25th at 5.30pm the football kicks off in Czechoslovakia, where England haven't won since 1963, then moves to Hampden Park as Scotland take on Finland. ■

Seeing the wood for the trees

The need to preserve rainforests and alleviate global warming is urgent. So what is being done?

● IN JUNE WORLD leaders will be gathering in Rio de Janeiro to deal with the threatened global environment.

The destruction of irreplaceable rainforests will be high on the agenda. This month the Discovery Channel is delving under the dense green rainforest canopy to look at the beauty of this self-contained eco-system and at efforts to preserve it.

Earthfile features three reports on the issue. The first rainforest check is Madagascar, where a UNESCO (the UN's Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation) bid to slow down deforestation on the Indian Ocean island seems to be working.

▼ There's a rich array of wildlife in the Lamington rainforest

▲ The majestic rainforest in Lamington National Park

Madagascar's progress is the result of an ambitious education campaign that has enlisted the co-operation of local communities in the management of their forests.

In Rio it is groups of activists that are in a race against time to preserve the Atlantic Forest. Earthfile reveals that they are studying safeguarded areas and collecting seeds and cuttings from them for replanting in devastated regions of the forest.

The final rainforest stop for Earthfile is in Papua New Guinea, where companies are allowed to negotiate logging rights directly with local communities who, by tradition, are the collective owners of the land.

Many inexperienced villagers have ended up signing away their rights to the land for small amounts of cash and vague promises of future development.

Ninety per cent of the population lives in rural areas and so the forest is Papua New Guinea's lifeline. Its destruction would be a catastrophe.

What on Earth!

To give an idea of the spectacular and sometimes eerie rainforest ambience, Discovery is also screening Rainforest – the Amazing World Within.

This is a beautifully photographed journey through Australia's sub-tropical rainforest in Lamington National Park. It is also a revelation in the very rare species it uncovers, like the prehistoric Rufous Scrub bird, the Cat Bird and Rainforest Possums.

Executive producer John Schindler says: 'It is a documentary that has been made with a lot of loving care, and over a period of several years.'

'The world-famous ornithologist and naturalist photographer Glen Threlfo has spent years seeking out our rarest wildlife and the visual results are quite stunning.' ■ sectors of the trade to implement urgently a step-by-step programme to improve forest management. Some of the biggest names in DIY retail outlets, property development and associated industries using timber have already announced their phasing out of unsustainably produced wood by 1995. Companies adopting the 1995 target include B&Q, Texas Homecare, Sainsbury's Homebase, MFI, Habitat and British Rail.

'Individuals can help by not buying goods from companies that have not adopted WWF 1995 target or by asking the company which country the wood has come from. WWF is presently trying to agree a seal of approval with sectors of the industry so consumers can easily identify a wood product's country of origin.

CONSUMER POWER CAN STOP THE CHAINSAW

● IMMEDIATE ACTION is needed to help preserve the earth's rainforests – and you can help.

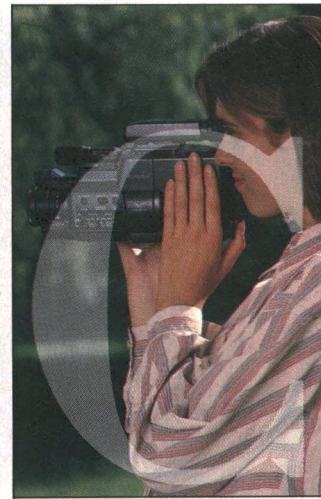

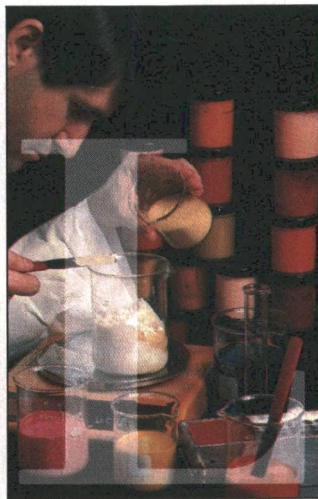

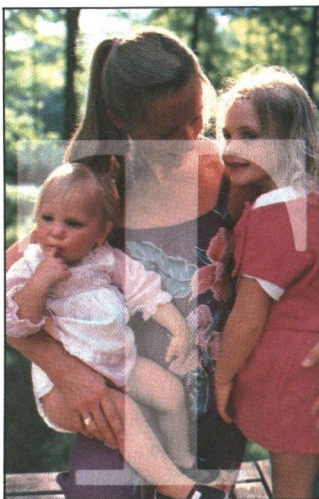

The World Wide Fund for Nature is campaigning for well-managed forests that are ecologically benign and socially acceptable. Francis Sullivan, Head of WWF's Forest Unit, outlines what's being done:

'WWF UK is committed to promoting the wise use of the world's forests and has set a target for the international timber trade to be based on sustainable supplies by 1995.

'Current rates of tropical forest destruction are running at over 17 million hectares per year – six football pitches a minute! Already almost half of the world's tropical rainforests have been destroyed and by the year 2000 countries such as Ivory Coast and the Malaysian States of Sarawak and Sabah will have run out of forest. Countries such as Thailand, Laos and Nigeria, who only recently were exporting tropical timber, are now having to import it.

'WWF is working with all

Camelot! The very name conjures up visions of chivalry and magic, romance and courage, daring and adventure.

Back in the mists of time – halfway between history and myth – there came a man to lead his people to glory. Arthur. Under the guidance of Merlin, he drew the mighty sword 'Excalibur' from a stone and won the Crown.

With the Knightly Fellowship of the Round Table he set out to destroy his Kingdom's enemies.

The magical Arthurian legend has gripped the imagination of successive generations. Now the heroes and enemies of Camelot are brought to the chessboard – in a superb chess set crafted in fine pewter.

Here are some of the finely sculpted pieces:

Defenders of Camelot

King Arthur, son of Uther Pendragon, Keeper of 'Excalibur' and the true King of England. A warrior and leader to rival Alexander the Great and Charlemagne.

Queen Guinevere, famed for her beauty, was rescued from King Malewys by Arthur and his Knights. Once again abducted, Sir Lancelot came to save her and the two fell in love – a tragic romance that would shatter the Knightly Fellowship.

Merlin, gifted with powers of divination and a prophet of the Holy Grail. He foretold Arthur's birth and the winning of the Crown. Arthur's closest counsellor, it is said he could talk from the moment he was born. An adept of the mystic arts, some say Merlin built Stonehenge, transporting the huge stones with his magical powers.

Sir Lancelot, a true vision of the Knight in shining armour – the strongest and the bravest. As a young man, Lancelot was carried off by the Lady of the Lake who reared him to be the model of chivalry. He was the father of Sir Galahad, the purest Knight of all.

Enemies of Camelot

Sir Mordred, son of Arthur, was born out of deceit and treachery. Using powers of the occult, his mother, Morgan le Fay, changed her appearance and tricked Arthur into conceiving the child. When Arthur was abroad Mordred seized the throne and in the battle that ensued, it was his dying blow that mortally wounded Arthur.

Morgan le Fay, Arthur's half-sister, who hated her brother so much that she sent Excalibur to Sir Accolon of Gaul and bade him slay the King. It is said she had a change of heart and healed Arthur's fatal wounds.

Lucius, Emperor of Rome, determined to subdue Arthur and his lands with a marauding army of barbarians. It led to a mighty battle where many thousands were slain.

Finely sculpted pewter

Every piece in this special set is expertly sculpted and fashioned of solid, antiqued pewter. The detail in each sculpture is magnificent, making it a pleasure to pick up and study each piece in turn. To distinguish the two sides, the bases are either polished to a glinting shiny finish or darkened to a glossy blackness.

This is truly a chess set to enjoy, both as a fascinating game and as a display of outstanding sculptural excellence.

A craftsman-made playing board

King Arthur – It is said he drew Excalibur from the stone on a moonlit night when he was just sixteen. Arthur is reputed to have won many battles in England and on the Continent. He acquired the Round Table as part of Guinevere's dowry.

Sir Lancelot – astride his spirited mount. The strongest and bravest of Knights, he fought many campaigns by Arthur's side. Sir Lancelot would have succeeded in the quest for the Holy Grail if it had not been for his love for Queen Guinevere.

Morgan le Fay – mistress of the black art. Legend has portrayed her in two forms: hostile and beneficent. Here, she is in her most evil guise, trying everything in her power to destroy Arthur.

TRIAL BY ORDEAL

HOW WELL do you really know your father?

That's the frightening question that torments Jessica Lange in Music Box. She plays a lawyer defending her father, a Hungarian immigrant in America who is accused of war crimes in Europe.

In trying to clear her father's name she also wants to reassure herself of his innocence.

Lange was eventually nominated for an Oscar for her performance, but several of Hollywood's male superstars could also see great potential for themselves in securing the role of her father. Kirk Douglas, Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon were among the names that made discreet enquiries about playing the part.

In the end it went to a German actor in a piece of casting that was not as unlikely as it first seemed.

Armin Mueller-Stahl was haunted by his own memories of wartime Germany. He narrowly escaped death when a soldier put a gun to his head and his father was shot dead by the Russians on the last day of the war.

So Mueller-Stahl had more of an insight into the background of the story, which is based on fact, than most actors. Filming certainly had some haunting moments for him.

'It was difficult to play,' he reportedly said. 'It was hard emotionally to play the part.'

'I never liked the character, for very obvious reasons.' ■

Fraud squad

ACTRESSES bemoan the lack of good parts for them but Anjelica Huston and Annette Bening had no reason to complain when cast in The Grifters.

It was a momentous break for Bening, whose sizzling performance caught the eye of Hollywood hotpants Warren Beatty. He cast her in a leading role in his new hit crime flick, Bugsy.

Their on-screen chemistry came naturally and she became his partner in real life, giving birth to his daughter in January.

For Huston, it must have seemed like centuries since she appeared in guest spots on TV's Laverne and Shirley.

She used to be more famous for being the girlfriend of Jack Nicholson than for her acting, but more recently her career soared with unforgettable performances like the one she gives in The Grifters.

Playing two con women trying to make a buck the dangerous way, Huston and Bening dominate the film and make the most of two gutsy parts.

The film is based on a hard-headed crime novel by Jim Thompson. Lilly Dillon (Huston) is the mother of small-time hustler Roy (John Cusack). She gets by placing bets at race-tracks to alter the odds for a gangster bookie and by creaming-off some of her boss's takings. She vies for the affections of her son with his girlfriend Myra Langtree (Bening), another schemer on the make.

They come together in a chilling story of people prepared to do desperate things to get rich quick, people who want to find love but who would settle for a few million in the bank. ■

▲ Fasten your seatbelts for 'Another 48 Hours'

THEY DROVE each other crazy in 48 Hours but were noisily reunited in Another 48 Hours. Eddie 'Dirty Mouth' Murphy as the recently released con and Nick 'Growling' Nolte as the renegade cop reluctantly team up again to track down a notorious San Francisco drug baron in an ultra-violent escapade that makes Armageddon look tranquil. Hang on to your armchair as director Walter Hill veers off on a kamikaze ride of mayhem in which characters and the plot are fire-bombed, stabbed or shot to oblivion. While Murphy's career appears to have been shellshocked by this sequel, Nolte can be seen by cinema audiences in two major films that should be among this month's Oscars, Prince of Tides and Cape Fear. ■

FILMS YOU'D BE MAD TO MISS

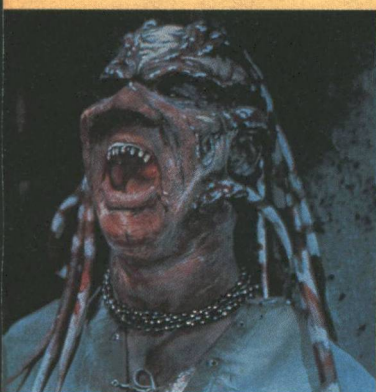

▲ Jamie Lee Curtis

▲ The Exorcist III

▼ Nightbreed

DURING THE RECENT full moon the programmers at Sky Movies Plus lined up an asylum load of psychos and demons to come down the cable to your front room in March.

In Blue Steel (Saturday 21st 10.00pm) Jamie Lee Curtis is a rookie New York cop who becomes the object of obsession for a demented businessman played by Ron Silver. So fixated with Curtis is he that he even carves her name on to the bullets he uses. Vivid violence and exhausting action sequences ensue before their final confrontation.

'Do you dare walk these steps again?' quivered the publicists for The Exorcist III (Saturday 7th 10.05pm), a far superior sequel than Exorcist II: The Heretic. William Peter Blatty, who wrote the novel on which the original terrifying Exorcist was based, wrote and directed this most recent instalment and he instilled some genuinely chilling set-pieces in it.

George C Scott, Brad Dourif and Nicol Williamson star in this story of a cop investigating some strange killings with the aid of an exorcist.

British cult horror novelist and filmmaker Clive Barker created a slithering, stomping Nightbreed (Sunday 29th 10.05pm) for the screen.

This boasts more monsters per minute than any other film and the casting coup of featuring Canadian director David Cronenberg (Shivers, Videodrome, Scanners) as a sick psychiatrist.

Barker is currently trying to breathe new life into the screen genre of The Mummy. Sweet dreams! ■

Calling HVC

● Fans of Patricia Charbonneau can thrill to her remarkable face and sensual good looks in Call Me, a compelling psychological drama showing on HVC. Pat plays Anna, a reporter who is plunged into the twilight world of drug deals, corrupt cops and lust by a series of obscene phone calls.

Billy Dee Williams of Mahogany fame stars with Morgan Fairchild in Deadly Illusion. He plays a private eye who is hired to kill the wife of a Wall Street tycoon, only to discover that something even more sinister than murder is afoot... ■

▶▶ HVC: Call Me Monday 2nd, 10.00pm, Friday 13th, 11.00pm, Tuesday 24th, 1.10am; Deadly Illusion Friday 6th 8.00pm Monday 16th, 8.00pm, Thursday 26th, 8.00pm ◀◀

▲ Denzel's as bold as brass

DENZEL WASHINGTON gives an excellent performance in 'Mo' Better Blues (The Movie Channel, Saturday 21st 8.15pm) as a self-centred jazz trumpeter who lets nothing stand in the way of his success – and lives to regret it. His character, Bleek Gilliam, two-times his girlfriends (Joie Lee and Cynda Williams) but he eventually must choose between music and matters of the heart. Spike Lee's fourth film avoids the usual clichés about the jazz scene and features music by Bill Lee (Spike's father), the late Miles Davis and Brandford Marsalis. ■

BSkyB buys Twin Peaks film

BRITISH Sky Broadcasting has unveiled some of the films it will be screening in 1993 and thereafter.

Topping the bill of new acquisitions is David Lynch's big-screen prequel to his hit TV series Twin Peaks. Entitled Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me, this feature-length offering from the controversial director will be released in cinemas later this year before BSkyB gives it its TV premiere a year or so later.

The film is set in the week prior to Laura Palmer's death and stars many of the TV cast along with pop stars Chris Isaak and David Bowie. It will take the bizarre tale far beyond the restrictions of the small screen, which Lynch felt 'restricted' him when making the cult show.

BSkyB is consistently updating and expanding its library and has concluded several deals with adventurous independent production companies.

Other films in the new package include Storyville (James Spader, Joanne Whalley Kilmer), The Player (Greta Scacchi, Tim Robbins, Whoopi Goldberg), Mr Saturday Night (Billy Crystal), Night and the City (Robert De Niro), Man Trouble (Jack Nicholson) and Before I Wake (Kathleen Turner). ■

MARCH

For me it's the greatest movie that never quite made it - and that's the joy of Anthony Asquith's 'The Importance of Being Earnest' - the camerawork is wooden, the photography undistinguished, but the rest is bliss. What's left are riches enough - a script, faithful to the last word to a classic light comedy by one of the world's wittiest men, performed by as fine a cast as ever took a West End curtain call. Truth is, it's as pure English theatre as any film can be; its an absurdly eccentric plot based on the importance of being an absolute snob. The incomparable Edith Evans gives the part of Lady Bracknell a definitive handbagging as the fabulously fearful battleaxe whom all dread worse than the thought of being born working class. Everyone's splendid - Joan Greenwood, Dorothy Tutin, Michael Dennison, Miles Mallison, the magically muddled Margaret Rutherford (what a Dame) and of course the founding father of his own acting dynasty, Michael Redgrave. The result is enchanting entertainment, without a hint of Hitchcock, a smidgen of Spielberg, or a touch of Tati...just the wonder of Wilde.

The prize for the oddest titled movie of the month is 'The Passing of the Third Floor Back' - all will become clear when you watch this enchanting fantasy tale of a stranger's effect on the discontented lives of the inhabitants of a London boarding house. It stars the enigmatic Conrad Veidt.

Female performance of the month goes to Rita Tushingham in the engagingly unsophisticated story of

'The Trap', set in the frozen wilderness of British Columbia in the 1890's. The lovely Rita gives a word-perfect performance as the mute orphan Eve, who is struck dumb a second time around when dragged off caveman-style to live with a growling but gifted French Canadian fur trapper played by the delightful Oliver Reed. His rough stuff she can take, but what makes us sure she'll never want to speak again (at least not to him) is his strange accent. He was obviously raised in the West Indian quarter of Quebec, son of a Lithuanian chicken farmer father and a Greek Cypriot mother. Nevertheless, it's an unusual movie, beautifully photographed and the action sequences are well done. Meanwhile, keep popping the popcorn.

ON & OFF THE SET

Joanne Woodward is just a plain and purr girl in between takes of 'Signpost to Murder' - let's hope she's knitting a nice warm scarf - she'll need it in this chilling thriller in which she plays a frightened wife, sheltering a criminally insane prisoner on the run (hope he doesn't get the needle). A good yarn, not to be missed.

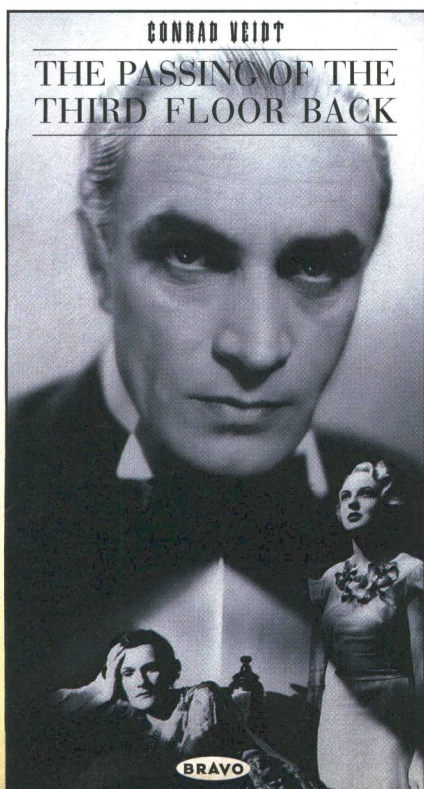

Clark Gable, a man with a mission on the set of 'Command Decision' in which he plays a fighter Commander forced to face up to some real life and death decisions. He looks pretty serious here anyway - perhaps it's the lunch wagon on the horizon?

The 'B' Western walks tall

Stagecoach, Union Pacific, Shane, Red River and The Magnificent Seven . . . These are the great Westerns, conjuring up visions of cowboys 'n' Indians, badmen and cattlemen, schoolmarms and gold prospectors, and the cavalry dashing in to rescue beleaguered settlers at the last minute.

But in the wake of these epics came scores of cheap but entertaining second features, starring sagebrush heroes like Tom Mix, William Boyd and the young John Wayne.

Leading the B-Western industry was Republic Pictures Corporation, founded by Herbert J. Yates in 1935. Yates ran Republic as a one-man concern, and his word was law. Republic produced hundreds of movies with stars like Roy Rogers, Constance Moore and Vera Hrubá Ralston (a former skating champion who also happened to be Yates's wife). Occasionally it handled major productions like Rio Grande and The Quiet Man.

By 1947 Wayne was a major star. He was allowed to produce that year's Republic production of Angel and the Badman, and to appear in it himself. Also starring rancho regulars Harry Carey and Bruce King Kong Cabot, it's a thoughtful, unpretentious

Gail Russell and John Wayne in Republic's 'Angel and The Bad Man'

Western featuring fine scenery and loads of action.

Republic gave another established star a chance to work on the other side of the camera in 1955, when Ray Milland was allowed to direct himself in A Man Alone. 'You can't shoot an unarmed man,' whinges Raymond Burr. 'No,' replies Milland, 'but I can sure beat you to death.' Once again, there's plenty of shooting, and with Western wags Ward Bond and Lee Van Cleef in the cast, you shouldn't be surprised.

Republic didn't have it all its own way, though. Countless other small studios turned out their own sagebrush sagas, with varying degrees of success.

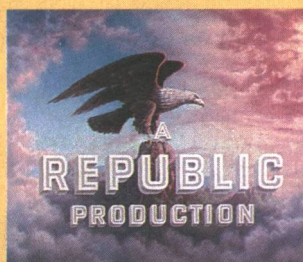

In 1938 RKO cast former silent Western star George O'Brien opposite Laraine Johnson (later Laraine Day) in the dusty and atmospheric The Painted Desert, while in 1955 Allied Artists held Fred MacMurray, Walter Brennan and Dorothy Peyton Place Malone At Gunpoint, an entertaining little revenge Western along the lines of High Noon.

But A Man Alone and At Gunpoint were the last Technicolor flickers of the genre's dying flame. After Laraine Johnson and years of hackneyed plots and plain over-exposure, and despite the gallant efforts of Randolph Scott, Audie

Murphy and Joel McCrea, the B-Western bit the dust in the mid-1950s. By the time Herbert J. Yates died in 1966, Republic hadn't made a movie in almost a decade, and the second feature was a thing of the past. Adios . . . ■

The 'I-Spy' Spy File

Starring: Robert Culp as Kelly Robinson and Bill Cosby as Alexander Scott (Scotty)

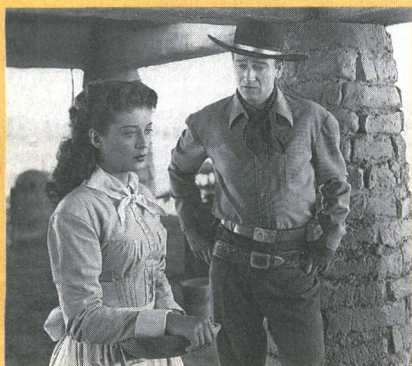

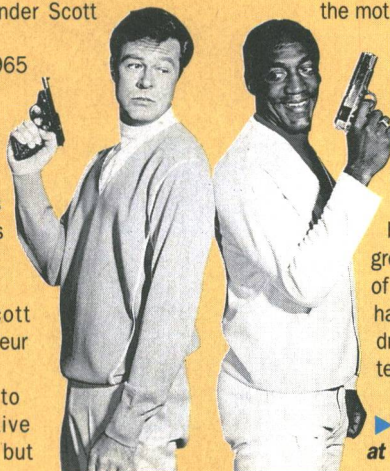

Screened: September 1965 to September 1968

Storyline: Kelly Robinson and Alexander Scott are a team of American agents. Kelly's cover is that of a top-seeded Davis Cup tennis player competing in world tournaments, while Scott poses as his trainer-masseur and companion. Both agents are committed to battling the destructive enemies of democracy, but their dedication does not stop them questioning the motives behind their missions.

Comments: Produced by Hollywood veteran Sheldon Leonard (Nick the bartender from It's a Wonderful Life), I-Spy was the first action-adventure TV series shot on location, visiting Hong Kong, Japan, Italy, Greece and Africa. Its realistic but humorous approach broke new ground, and Cosby had the distinction of being the first black performer to have a starring role in a regular dramatic series on American television. ■

Today's Choice

12.30pm Screensport. Forte Snooker League. A unique feature of the Forte Hotels Matchroom League has been the relegation system. At the end of each season the bottom two players are relegated. However, with the increase of participants, promoter Barry Hearn has decided to put even more pressure on the players, and the bottom four next year will not be required for the 1993 Forte Hotels Matchroom League. The league was won by Steve Davis in every year from 1987 to 1990, but this year's 1991 title was claimed for the first time by World Number 1 Stephen Hendry.

5.00pm The Discovery Channel. Monkeys on Mondays: Jambo The Gentle Giant. Jambo is the most famous gorilla in the world. The first male gorilla to be bred in captivity, his potency is helping to restore the world's dwindling gorilla population. His greatest moment came when a child fell into the gorilla complex at Jersey Zoo. Jambo stood guard over the unconscious child, gently protecting him from the other gorillas. Real footage of the incident destroys forever the image of the gorilla as a savage, aggressive beast.

8.00pm Bravo. The Big Steal. Poor old Bob Mitchum seems to spend all his time on one long chase through Mexico in this sharp thriller. Teaming up later with lovely Jane Greer, he chases moody Patric Knowles, who in turn is being chased by stocky William Bendix, all for a large bundle of money. It's all a bit confusing at first, but once the reason for all this activity becomes clear, you'll be riveted. Directed by Don Siegel.

8.00pm Super Channel. Wild America: Wild Refuge. From the first and smallest refuge created on Florida's three acre Pelican Island in 1902, to the 890,000 acres of Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, the American attitude and system of sanctuary for indigenous wildlife and habitat is unequalled anywhere in the world. From Maine to Arizona, millions of acres have been set aside for native wildlife to flourish undisturbed. In this episode we study the creatures that live in these game reserves, where research work is conducted without harm to the animals, and see the benefits to both man and beast.

Hardware. Returning from the nuclear-ravaged wastelands, Moses (Dylan McDermott) pays a visit to girlfriend Julie (Stacy Travis), an industrial artist who stays locked away from 'uncivilisation' in her dungeon-like basement studio. He brings with him the fragments of a destroyed warrior robot as a gift. It isn't long before these seemingly dormant pieces reactivate themselves and mutate into an unstoppable psychopathic killer which stalks Julie relentlessly through her apartment. Mind-boggling visuals, a pulsating score and a wealth of imagination are impossible to deny.

8.25pm Bravo. Border Incident. Anthony Mann directed this interesting drama about 'wetbacks' (illegal Mexican immigrants, so named because of having to wade the Rio Grande to enter the US), and murder. Ricardo Montalban of Fantasy Island fame plays a tough immigration agent who is used as a decoy to break up a large 'slave-trading' market. Interesting music score by Andre Previn.

9.00pm The Discovery Channel. Children's War. A disturbing insight into the lives of the poor children of Rio de Janeiro in Brazil. These kids, often homeless and reduced to begging and crime, are the victims of gang wars and the government's policy of 'selective elimination', carried out by the death squads they employ. This programme is an inflexible vision of a world without pity, a world which simply cannot be ignored any longer.

Today's Choice

8.00pm Super Channel. Wild America: Fishers in The Family part 1. The slender luxuriously-coated Fisher is misnamed, as it does not catch fish! Cat-sized members of the weasel family, fishers are rare, energetic but playful animals. This film is full of the antics of this delightful creature, and follows the story of two orphaned fisher brothers who were rescued by Mary Stouffer and adopted. Living in the northerly areas of America, these predatory creatures are of great interest to scientists who would like to know more about its habits and natural instincts.

	INDRA DHNUSH			THE MOVIE CHANNEL	Today's Choice 9.50am The Movies Channel. The Adventures of Robin Hood. The unbeatable and definitive version (sorry, Kostner fans) of the Robin Hood folk tale. Errol Flynn plays the dashing outlaw of Sherwood Forest who, with the help of his tree-dwelling band of merry men, takes on the might of Basil Rathbone's superbly sneering Guy of Gisbourne, the Sheriff of Nottingham, and Claude Rains' snivelling Prince John, in an attempt to end the injustices perpetrated against the good people of the land. Erich Wolfgang Korngold won an Oscar for his rousing score.

10.00pm The Discovery Channel. Masalitits. A film which focuses on how a false image of this people is being portrayed to tourists. The film features the 'Olngesher' an ancient ceremony which occurs only once every 12 to 15 years, where males in their 30s are promoted to manhood. This may well be the last such ceremony, for among many other poetic and ritual traditions of the Masai it is struggling for survival in an increasingly modern world besieged by tourists.

 INDRA DHNUSH			THE MOVIE CHANNEL		Today's Choice 9.45pm Bravo. The Importance of Being Earnest. This production of one of Oscar Wilde's best-loved plays boasts an impeccable array of performers, including Michael Redgrave, Edith Evans, Margaret Rutherford and Joan Greenwood, as it chronicles the potential marital problems of two wealthy and eligible batchelors of the 1890s. A wondrously witty lighter-than-air British comedy of manners, arguable the best since the Restoration. Watch out for British favourite Miles Malleon.

Dark Angel. Dolph Lundgren stars as hulking Houston cop Jack Caine, hot on the trail of an even more hulking alien who has come to earth to deal in intergalactic drugs. Faced with the bad guy's vast array of weaponry, our hero is forced to use all his resources to overcome the outer-space opponent, as the one-on-one battle rages through the city streets. Although the alien claims to have come in peace, Caine is determined to make sure he leaves in pieces. An exciting blend of cop thriller and Predator-style sci-fi adventure.

Red Dust. The owner of an Indo-Chinese rubber plantation (Clark Gable) comes adulterously close to tangling with the wife of his newly-hired engineer (Mary Astor). But, regaining his moral fibre at the last moment, he hooks up with local madam Jean Harlow. A steamy romantic melodrama which pleased Depression audiences greatly in 1932, although the film's original poster tag-line - 'He treated her rough and she loved it' - should give today's more sophisticated audiences a good idea of what to expect.

10.00pm Sky Movies Plus. Blue Steel. When a young rookie cop Megan Turner (Jamie Lee Curtis) blows away an armed convenience store robber, she is mystified that no gun is found at the scene of the crime. Pretty soon that same gun is being used for a series of violent killings by psychotic bystander Eugene Hunt, whose obsession with Megan leads him to engrave her name on the bullets he uses. Complicating things further is the fact that Megan has been dating Hunt for some time, unaware of his true, murderous nature. A relentless thriller from Kathryn Bigelow, director of the cult movie The Loveless.

Nightmare. Single mother Linda Hemmings (Dallas's Victoria Principal) leaves the big city in order to raise her adolescent daughter Dana in the tranquility of a small suburban town. But even then she is not safe from the horrors of the modern world, as her life is shattered when Dana is abducted by a child-molesting serial killer who taunts Linda with her daughter's life. In desperation she turns to cop Jake Willman, a veteran of the big city accustomed to the worst excesses of human ugliness, who has his own tried and tested ways of dealing with such situations.

9.20pm Bravo. A Man Alone. One of the Republic's last westerns, shot in blinding Technicolor. Actor-director Ray Milland plays a rough, gunslinging type with a heart of gold who is blamed for murdering the passengers of a stagecoach. The real killer is meany Raymond Burr, who takes over the town while Sherrif and western veteran Ward Bond is laid up in bed. There's a spirited performance from Wild One refugee Mary Murphy as Ward's fiery daughter, and good old Ray can be relied upon to save the day. Lots of shooting.

8.00pm The Discovery Channel. The Nobel Century: The Dynamite Bequest. Alfred Nobel was a classic 'mad scientist'. He invented dynamite almost by accident and proceeded to make an enormous fortune. Amazingly, he became a lifelong pacifist and founder of the Nobel Peace Prize. The Dynamite Bequest begins this lively account of our century's greatest achievements, starting with the nervous beginnings of the prize and the great scientific discoveries at the beginning of the century - X-rays, the work of the Curies and the transformation of medicine from an art to a science.

Dracula. Eerie, atmospheric adaptation of Bram Stoker's classic tale of vampirism finds cuddly Bela Lugosi as the evil age-old Count terrorising London and the surrounding countryside. A small group of individuals, led by vampire hunter Van Helsing and Jonathan Harker, fights to destroy the abomination, who has already begun to work his sinister seductive ways with Mina, Harker's wife-to-be. Dwight Frye, also remembered as Dr Frankenstein's grisly assistant, steals the show as Renfield, fly-eater extraordinaire and slave to the diabolical Dracula.

Today's Choice

5.05pm Bravo. Lassie Come Home. Hollywood juveniles Elizabeth Taylor and Roddy McDowall shine in this moving story of a family forced to sell their pet collie dog through poverty. Lassie's having none of it, though, and scrambles over rocks, swims deep rivers and braves all the elements of storm and tempest that nature can hurl at her, in an attempt to return to her beloved master. Moving performances from Donald Crisp as the boy's father and Edmund Gwenn as an itinerant pedlar add character to this evergreen children's classic.

A season of motorsport coverage gets the green light on Sky Sports this month

IT'S THE WHEEL THING!

SKY SPORTS is getting into gear for a season of high-octane sport on two and four wheels.

The Red Line motorsport mag has all the latest news on Thursday evenings (times vary), this month featuring special reports on Swedish, Portuguese and Arctic rallying, British rallycross and superbikes. On Thursday 26th pole position goes to the 500cc motorcycling championship which is previewed at 2.30pm.

The 500cc championship begins live at 2.30am on the night of Saturday 28th, with the Japanese circuit of Suzuka hosting the first of 15 rounds in the 1992 title chase.

Rock Sport profiles Suzuki speed-freak Kevin Schwantz on Sunday 8th (9.30am) as the promising American sets out to beat Wayne Rainey and take his 1991 title. On four wheels, Indy Car action squeals on to the screen with Michael Andretti beginning his defence of the Formula Indy title. The open-wheel, open-cockpit racing is famed for its fierce competition.

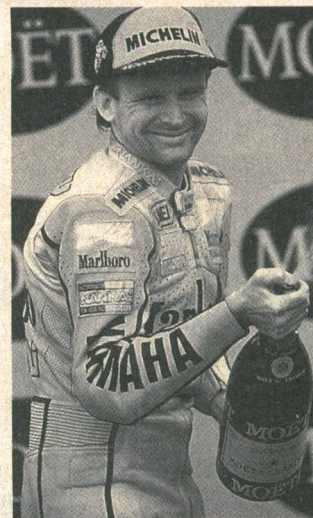

Keep an eye out for Formula One drivers Eddie Cheever and Mario Andretti as they hit the grid at Surfer's Paradise in Australia (Sunday 22nd 4.00pm).

If closed-cockpit cars are more your style, Sky Sports offers Nascar, stock-car racing from the US. Speeds on the super speedways reach 200mph attracting more than three-million spectators to 16 thrilling events.

The series starts with the Transouth 500 live on Sunday 29th (8.00pm). ■

A rich museum piece to display in your home capturing all the glory of an illustrious tradition.

The Sword of the Samurai

Individually wrought of tempered steel, plated with 22 carat gold embellishments and rich braiding. Magnificently sheathed in a scabbard of lacquered wood.

The dramatic swords of the Samurai. Today, connoisseurs regard them as resplendent works of art that rank among the world's rarest and most prized treasures. Venerated weapons closely bound to history, tradition and romance.

Now, Franklin Mint has undertaken a superb recreation inspired by one of the most revered Samurai swords. A single-edged, curved blade - crafted by the world-renowned armourers of Toledo, Spain, in tempered, non-tarnishing steel - is dramatically accented in regal blue braiding and rich 22 carat gold. Its scabbard is sealed with a metallic lacquer and rubbed to a smooth lustre. It bears the distinctive crest of the Tokugawa family - the mark of a true Shogun heirloom.

Priced at £595 payable in convenient monthly instalments.

The Sword of the Samurai comes complete with a museum quality black lacquer display stand. To acquire a resplendent work of art to display in your home or office, simply post the attached commission authorisation form.

Bearing the Tokugawa family crest The Sword of the Samurai is richly accented with gold and embellished with regal blue braiding.

The venerated Samurai sword is shown much smaller than actual size of 39½" from pommel to blade tip.
